

The ceiling is the top of a staircase, and the candidate shift would remove its bottom step $8D = 0$: reachable on the lattice, excluded by identity (II), not by a theorem the per- D curve falls monotonically, so the ceiling sits on the smallest positive $8D$ that is physically admissible